Newsletter

Dear Parents,

Last Monday, I sent home an informational packet regarding our Parade of States Project. The students have all checked out their state books from our Bethany library. You may also want to have your child visit your own public library for additional resources. This week, I will continue to teach the children how to fill out each notecard. I will also show them how to cite their sources on each card, so they can refer back to the specific source they used for each section of their outline. I am requiring the children to bring back their notecards and outline each day to school. I will provide work time for this project in school at times.
